HANALEI BAY

Japan, US – 2018 – 97 min - HD - 1:1.85

Japanese / English

Synopsis

A Japanese teenager was killed while surfing in Hawaii. His single mother Sachi flies to Hanalei Bay and confronts this sudden loss. Since then for ten years, Sachi visits the island every year in the same season and stays a couple of weeks to reconnect with her estranged son. Sachi can't fill in the gap of an unbearable distance after all, but one day she meets with two young surfers about the same age as her son when he died.

Director's bio & filmo

Started out as an actor, appearing in Shinobu YAGUCHI's "Waterboys" ('01) before becoming a director of behind-the-scenes documentaries, music videos and TV spots. His 8-year-in-the-making documentary, "Pyuupiru 2001-2008)", has been premiered at Rotterdam IFF ('10), then he had commercial success with his 1st feature "Pieta in the Toilette" ('15) in Japan. Making a couple of documentaries meanwhile, he has also been selected to take part as one of Asia's bright new directors for the second collection of films produced through the Japan Foundation/Tokyo Intl. Film Festival's Asian Three-fold Mirror project.
