A heartfelt, magical movie about friendship” says Latina Media on the film in their list of five Latino films they recommend at Tribeca this year...

Entering the International Narrative Competition are writer-directors Ana Guevara and Leticia Jorge with Don't You Let Me Go, a heartfelt, magical movie about friendship. The world premiere centers around Adela (Chiara Hourcade) struggling to be present at her best friend Elena’s (Victoria Jorge) wake. When she leaves, in lieu of her car, she finds a magical bus that transports her back to a special weekend in her childhood – riding bikes, dancing, and reading with Elena. As a film, it focuses on the joys of friendship between women and how the little things have the most impact. It looks to be a beautiful tearjerker.
